Opening Ceremonies

Session 1: The Evolving Security Landscape

Rising political, economic, social disturbances and disruptive shifts in technology are creating risks and instabilities which have direct impact on businesses around the world. This session will examine the evolving macro-level risk landscape and highlight the systemic threats that may disrupt businesses. These cover the following categories:

- Economic
- Environmental
- Technological
- Societal
- Geopolitical

Session 2: Sectoral Break-out Sessions: Panel Discussions

There is a compelling need for organizations to strengthen their resilience against shocks and surprises that challenge their operations. This will be an opportunity to analyze each sector's vulnerability, address the challenges and threats they face and apply ingenuity to drive management innovations for a more resilient organization. Innovations both in responses and collaboration platforms have become most important tools for business to survive.

Session 3: Plenary session: Summary Presentations by Panel Session Facilitators

Session 4: Future Instability Challenges

- Data and Disinformation
- Critical infrastructure attack
- Cyber attacks
- Governance challenges
- Pandemics
- Natural/man-made disasters

Session 5: Future Business Opportunities

Today's business environment is characterized by rapid unpredictable changes. While some of these changes pose challenges and even threats to business, there are also business opportunities offered by some of them.

Session 6: Technology Presentations

This will be brief presentations of some of the latest technological innovations affecting security. Demonstrations by exhibitors may be conducted after the session.

The agenda includes also a Speed Meet Up Session on the first day where each delegate gets to meet a representative from each of the government agencies concerned with security and safety. This will be followed by a Social Networking Cocktail with senior government officials and diplomats as special guests.
